

Conservation

Issue 50: Autumn 2005

bulletin

EUROPEAN AND WORLD PERSPECTIVES

In this 50th issue of Conservation Bulletin we focus on the international historic environment scene – how it works, the partnerships that are in place, the exciting results that are being achieved, and the outlook for the future.

Fort aan de Klop, at Utrecht in the Netherlands, was built in 1821 and reinforced with a bombproof guardhouse in 1851. The guardhouse was restored in 2004 as part of the Crossing the Lines Project described in this issue.

-
- 2 Heritage across Boundaries
 - 2 International overview
 - 4 Who we work with

 - 6 Understanding Historic Landscapes
 - 6 An embarrassment of riches
 - 8 European knowledge networks
 - 10 European technical developments
 - 12 World Heritage Sites: establishing value

 - 16 Managing the Past for the Present
 - 16 Our European partners
 - 18 International case studies
 - 18 What we work with
 - 24 Managing World Heritage Sites
 - 30 Brownfield regeneration and industrial heritage

 - 33 Sharing the Past with Everyone
 - 33 Engaging with England's heritage
 - 35 Providing the best days out in history
 - 37 Enhancing the visitor experience

 - 41 News
 - 43 The National Monuments Record
 - 46 Legal Developments
 - 47 New Publications
-

ENGLISH HERITAGE